INTRODUCTION

This study examines campaign finance activity by political action committees in Massachusetts during the 2009-10 state election cycle.

The Office of Campaign and Political Finance (OCPF) administers Massachusetts General Laws Chapter 55, which provides for disclosure and regulation of campaign finance activity on the state, county and municipal levels. Several types of political committees in Massachusetts file reports with OCPF, including those organized on behalf of individual candidates for public office; committees promoting or opposing ballot questions; committees registered on behalf of political parties on the ward, town, city and state level; and political action committees (PACs) and people's committees.

PACs are political committees organized to receive and expend funds to support or oppose candidates, generally based on a unifying principle or purpose as defined in their original statements of organization. People's committees are committees that started as PACs, but receive contributions only from individuals at a maximum annual amount that is indexed biennially by OCPF every two years (the limit is now $151). Contributions from people's committees do not count toward a candidate's statutory limit on annual aggregate contributions from PACs. (Unless specifically noted otherwise, the term "PACs" in this report also includes people's committees.)

PAC Disclosure Requirements

Section 18 of Chapter 55 requires PACs to disclose their campaign finance activity in reports filed regularly with OCPF. The filing schedule varies by the year: PACs are required to file reports two times for activity in a non-election year and three times for activity in a state election (even-numbered) year. In an election year, those reports are filed eight days prior to the primary election in September; eight days prior to the November election; and on the following Jan. 20. For a non-election year, the reports are due by July 20 on the following Jan. 20.¹

Section 18C of Chapter 55 requires PACs with receipts or expenditures of more than $10,000 in a two-year election cycle to file their reports electronically with OCPF. Committees not meeting that threshold are not required to e-file, but are still encouraged to submit their reports electronically. Reports e-filed by PACs and all other candidates and committees may be found in OCPF's Electronic Filing System, which is accessible through the Electronic Filing section of OCPF's website, www.mass.gov/ocpf. For the time period covered by this report, PACs were required to disclose their account balances at the beginning of each reporting period; aggregate receipts for the reporting period; aggregate expenditures for the reporting period; in-kind contributions for the reporting period; itemized receipts over $50; itemized expenditures over $50; and all outstanding liabilities.

The maximum amount a PAC or people's committee may contribute to a Massachusetts candidate is $500 in a calendar year. The campaign finance law also sets aggregate annual limits on what individual candidates may receive in total from all PACs. That limit ranges from $150,000 for a candidate for governor to $18,750 for a Senate candidate and $7,500 for a House candidate. There are no aggregate limits for municipal candidates, and there is no limit on the aggregate amount any candidate may receive from people's committees.

Methodology

The statistical information contained in this study is based on information received by OCPF in campaign finance reports filed by PACs for the calendar years 2009 and 2010. Because the report is based primarily on the figures reported by PACs, not those provided by candidate's committees, the numbers contained herein are subject to amendment after a routine cross-check by OCPF with reports filed by candidates and committees. This study includes corrections, additions and deletions that may occur as a result of any review conducted by OCPF or amendments filed by PACs, candidates or political committees. However, some changes, especially those taking place after the summer of 2011, are not included in this study.

Those interested in determining the exact amount of PAC and people's committee contributions accepted by individual candidates and committees are advised to check those candidate and committee reports for the relevant time periods to determine the amounts that were accepted.

Some state and county candidates may also have held local office, such as a selectman or city councilor running for or serving in the state Legislature, but for the purposes of this report are considered state or county candidates. In addition, some legislative candidates may have sought local office, such as mayor, in 2009. They are also treated as state candidates in this study. The aggregate figures include candidates running in special elections in 2009 or 2010.

This study was compiled and written based on information filed with the office by PACs. Those seeking further information on the study or any other facet of the Massachusetts campaign finance law may contact the Office of Campaign and Political Finance, John W. McCormack Building, One Ashburton Place, Room 411, Boston, MA 02108. This study and other data are available on the office's Web site, at www.mass.gov/ocpf.

FINDINGS

I. Overview

The 2009-10 election cycle saw political action committees in Massachusetts set some records, including total contributions to state and county candidates, and total expenditures.

PACs reached a new high for contributions to state and county candidates in the 2009-10 election cycle. The contribution total of $2,744,437 eclipsed the 2007-08 total of $2,684,944. The record was surpassed in an election cycle that had a statewide election.

The $1.6 million in contributions to state and county candidates in 2010 was also a new annual high, surpassing the previous record of $1.49 million set in 2008.

A new level was also reached in aggregate PAC expenditures. PACs reported a total of $6.8 million in expenditures for the 2009-10 election cycle, breaking the previous record of $5.8 million set two years before (see chart on page 5).

The number of PACs registered with OCPF at any one time has remained at just over 300 in recent years. A total of 308 PACs were registered with OCPF at the end of 2009 while 302 were open at the end of 2010.

A total of 433 candidates were reported as recipients of at least one PAC contribution in 2010, a state election year. The total in 2009 was 296.

Union and labor PACs continued to be the top contributors in the 2009-10 cycle. Unions and labor organizations accounted for 17 of the top 20 PACs in terms of contributions to state and county candidates.

The 433 state and county candidates in 2010 received $3,757 in PAC contributions, on average. The average in the 2008 election year was $4,118.

Democrats received more PAC contributions than Republicans in the 2009-10 cycle. Democrats received a total of $2,562,227, making up 89 percent of all contributions. A total of $235,045 went to Republican party candidates and committees.

*State office includes any of the six statewide constitutional offices (Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Treasurer, Secretary of State or Auditor), Governor's Council, Senate and House of Representatives. County office includes District Attorney, Sheriff, County Commissioner, Clerk of Courts, Treasurer, Register of Deeds and Register of Probate.

The campaign finance law sets an aggregate annual limit on what an individual candidate may receive in total from all PACs. The limit ranges from $150,000 for a candidate for governor to $18,750 for a Senate candidate and $7,500 for a House candidate.

II. Breakdown of PAC Activity

Aggregate Spending

PACs reported spending a total of $6,881,367 in 2009-10, up 18 percent from the previous two-year cycle. The spending total is the highest ever recorded in a two-year cycle, surpassing the previous two-year high of $5,824,461 set in 2009-10.

PAC expenditures for a cycle have exceeded $5 million only five times: in addition to the last four cycles, the mark was cracked in 1989-90, when total PAC spending reached $5,046,256. The 2009-10 cycle was the first time that PAC spending exceeded $6 million.

Contributions from PACs to candidates (state, county and some municipal) accounted for 44 percent of all PAC spending in 2009-10, down from nearly 50 percent in the 2007-08 election cycle.

By law, a PAC may expend money only “for the enhancement of the principle” for which it was organized, which may include other categories of expenditures as long as those expenditures meet that test. Examples of additional spending by PACs include administrative and fundraising expenses, independent expenditures supporting or opposing candidates, and contributions to other political committees, including federal and state party committees, local and federal candidates not registered with OCPF and ballot question committees.

TOTAL: Contributions to all candidates and committees	$1,390,274	$1,925,643	$3,315,917

* This category is mostly made up of candidates for mayor and councilor-at-large in Boston, Cambridge, Lowell, Springfield and Worcester, who report their campaign finance activity to OCPF, but also includes some candidates for mayor in cities with populations between 40,000 to 100,000 and other local candidates.

Activity by Cycle

The $2,744,437 in PAC contributions to state and county candidates in 2009-10 is the highest ever recorded in a two-year election cycle since OCPF began tracking and publishing PAC activity in 1982. The previous record was $2,684,944 from 2007-08.

The list of the top ten election cycles in terms of PAC contributions is equally divided among cycles with elections for statewide offices and those that did not. As noted above, cycles that include a statewide election tend to feature a greater amount of PAC contributions.

Activity by Year

Total contributions to state and county candidates in 2010 reached an all-time high, eclipsing a record set two years earlier.

(e) = State election year. (s) = State election year that also included statewide offices.
(n) = Non-election year.

Average PAC Contributions

The average PAC contribution to an individual candidate in both 2009 and 2010 was $314 and $335, respectively. The $335 average is the highest ever recorded, surpassing the previous high of $331 posted in 1983. The all-time lowest average was the $200 figure recorded in 1996.

The 296 state and county candidates in 2009 who received at least one PAC contribution averaged $3,775 in total PAC contributions. The 433 state and county candidates in 2010 received $3,757 in PAC contributions, on average. The averages in 2007 and 2008 were $4,088 and $4,118, respectively.

III. Contribution Recipients

PACs continued to support the types of candidates who have received the bulk of their contributions in past years, such as incumbents and Democrats.

Office Sought

Contenders for the House and Senate received 74 percent of all contributions to state and county candidates in the 2009-10 cycle, or $2,024,558. House and Senate candidates received 85 percent of all PAC contributions in 2008-09. A possible reason for the decrease was the addition of races for the six statewide offices on the 2010 ballot. There were no statewide races on the 2008 ballot.

PAC contributions to state and county candidates by office sought 2009-10

2009	$821,817	$180,184	$113,270	$2,200

TOTAL	$2,024,558	$471,099	$224,630	$18,150

Party Affiliation

PACs directed the bulk of their contributions to Democrats in the 2009-10 election cycle. Democrat candidates and committees received a total of $2,562,227, making up 89 percent of all contributions. A total of $235,045 went to Republican candidates and committees. The remainder went to candidates and committees that were not members of either of the two major parties.

Incumbency

Incumbents were more likely to receive PAC contributions than those who were not. PAC contributions to legislative incumbents on the 2010 ballot accounted for more than $1.5 million during the 2009-10 election cycle. Non-incumbents received $425,290.

IV. PAC Characteristics

Number of PACs Contributing

The number of PACs organized with OCPF is a fluid number, with various committees organizing and dissolving throughout an election cycle. The number of PACs registered with OCPF at any one time has remained at just over 300 in recent years. A total of 308 PACs were registered with OCPF at the end of 2009 and 302 were open at the end of 2010.

The level of activity of PACs varies, with many committees reporting significant activity, and some posting few receipts and expenditures. In recent cycles, up to two-thirds of all PACs have been active contributors to candidates in any one year. A total of 195 PACs reported contributing in 2009 and 227 did so in 2010. The 227 PACs contributing in 2010 breaks the previous record of 221, which was set in 2006.

Top Contributors

PACs representing labor, business and professional interests continued to dominate in terms of contributions to candidates. Of the top 20 PACs in terms of total contributions, 17 represented unions or labor organizations, the same number represented in 2009-10. The remaining three PACs on the list represented realtors, beer distributors and Democratic state representatives.

The Retired Public Employees PAC finished at the top again for the 2009-10 cycle with $134,900 in contributions to state and county candidates. The PAC has been the top contributor each cycle since then 1997-98 election cycle.

People's Committees

A people's committee is a form of PAC that receives contributions only from individuals up to a maximum annual amount that is indexed biennially by OCPF every two years and is now $151.² Contributions from people's committees do not count toward a candidate's statutory limit on annual aggregate contributions from PACs.

The number of people's committees organized with OCPF during the 2009-10 cycle was eight, four fewer than during the 2007-08 cycle. The greatest number of people's committees organized for a cycle was in 2007-08.

A total of $288,415 was donated by people's committees in 2009-10, a 10 percent drop from the 2007-08 total of $319,735. The 2007-08 amount was the highest total contribution total ever, exceeding the previous record set in 2005-06 by more than $100,000.

The total donated by people's committees in 2009-10 was 8.7 percent of the total amount contributed by PACs and people's committees during the cycle.

Three people's committees made the list of top 20 PACs in terms of contributions: the Professional Firefighters, the Sheet Metal Workers Local 17, and the Mass. Brick Layers.
